Dear Senator,

On behalf of Americans for Financial Reform, we are writing to urge that you oppose the “Burdensome Data Collection Relief Act” (H.R. 1062) to repeal Section 953(b) of the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act. If enacted, H.R. 1062 will protect overpaid CEOs from embarrassment by allowing them to hide shameful pay disparities within their companies.

Americans for Financial Reform is an unprecedented coalition of over 250 national, state and local groups who have come together to reform the financial industry. Members of our coalition include consumer, civil rights, investor, retiree, community, labor, religious and business groups as well as prominent economists.

Dodd-Frank Section 953(b) requires publicly traded companies to disclose the ratio of compensation between the Chief Executive Officer and their median employee. This provision received the unanimous support of every Democratic member of the Senate Banking Committee during the March 2010 markup of the Dodd-Frank Act. We urge your continued support for this provision.

Dodd-Frank Section 953(b) was enacted to give investors better tools to gauge their company’s compensation practices—whether they are investing in their employees and creating good jobs, or only enriching a few top executives. Numerous academic studies have documented that extreme pay disparities have a detrimental effect on employee productivity, reduce employee morale, and drive up turnover rates.

Disclosure of CEO-to-employee pay ratios will encourage Boards of Directors to limit CEO pay levels. Part of the CEO pay problem is that the existing disclosure rules encourage companies to focus on what other companies pay their CEOs. Because CEOs believe that they should be paid above average, this “groupthink” compensation process leads to ever-spiraling pay increases for CEOs.

Excessive CEO pay contributed to the Wall Street financial crisis by encouraging executives to take undue risk for the lure of big money. More than 14 million Americans still are unemployed as a result of the economic recession caused by the Wall Street financial crisis. For this reason, we strongly urge you to protect American jobs from future Wall Street disasters by voting against repeal of any part of the Dodd-Frank Act.

Sincerely,

Americans for Financial Reform
