The Honorable Sherrod Brown
Chairman, Senate Subcommittee on Financial Institutions and Consumer Protection
538 Dirksen Bldg
Washington, D.C.

Dear Senator Brown,

Americans for Financial Reform supports your legislation, "The Safe, Accountable, Fair and Efficient Banking Act of 2012." Americans for Financial Reform (AFR) is a coalition of over 250 national, state, and local groups who have come together to advocate for reform of the financial industry. Members of AFR include consumer, civil rights, investor, retiree, community, labor, faith based and business groups along with prominent independent experts.

The current size and concentration of our banking sector is unprecedented in American history, and the problem has only grown worse as a result of the financial rescue. In 1980, the five largest banking institutions controlled assets equal to about 14 percent of gross domestic product. Today, our five largest banks control about 55 percent of GDP. The failure of any of these large institutions could result in another financial panic and would create great pressure on government to once again provide assistance to the financial industry. Despite the reforms passed in the Dodd-Frank Act, the size and complexity of these institutions would make an orderly resolution enormously challenging.

The SAFE Banking Act would address this problem in a direct and straightforward manner by limiting the total size of any banking institution and imposing a leverage limit of 10 to 1. Size limitations would work through limits on deposits, non-deposit liabilities, and off balance sheet exposures, and would be pegged to the size of the U.S. economy and the total deposit base.

The SAFE Banking Act would ensure that all of our financial institutions are fully exposed to market discipline. American taxpayers, end users of the financial system, and government regulators should not be held hostage to banks that are too big to fail. Richard Fisher of the Dallas Federal Reserve has called the continuing existence of such banks "a perversion of capitalism", and Camden Fine, president of the Independent Community Bankers of America, has stated, "Downsizing too-big-to-fail institutions and the risks they pose to the financial system could not be worse than taxpayers spending trillions of dollars propping up these firms and federal officials, not the free market, picking winners and losers."

Thank for your efforts in introducing this legislation. AFR is proud to support it.

Sincerely,

Americans for Financial Reform
