Dear Representative,

On behalf of Americans for Financial Reform, we are writing to oppose the current draft of the Appropriations bill on Financial Services and General Government (FSGG).¹

At the end of last year Congress wisely rejected multiple efforts to use the budget process to force through unrelated ideological riders, including changes in financial regulation that would undermine consumer protections, endanger financial security, or reduce accountability for large financial institutions.

Unfortunately, this appropriations legislation is once again loaded with ideological policy riders aimed at weakening Wall Street oversight:

- Sections 129 and 130 would gravely weaken the ability of the Office of Financial Research to serve as an unbiased and independent watchdog on potential financial sector risks.
- Sections 501 and 502 would make the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau (CFPB) the only federal bank regulator without independent funding, while Section 505 changes the structure of the agency from its current single director to a more unwieldy and ineffective commission structure.
- Section 506 would eliminate new CFPB protections against forced arbitration clauses that deny consumers access to the courts to remedy financial abuses.
- Section 626 weakens the ability of the Financial Stability Oversight Council (FSOC) to designate large non-bank financial entities that pose a risk to the financial system for increased prudential oversight. The importance of proper oversight of large non-bank financial companies was clearly demonstrated in 2008 when AIG, an insurance company, received the largest public bailout in U.S. history.
- Title XI of the bill would grant special privileges under the bankruptcy code to large financial institutions.

These ideological policy riders would weaken consumer and financial protections and should not in any case be attached to a funding bill.

¹ Americans for Financial Reform is an unprecedented coalition of more than 200 national, state and local groups who have come together to reform the financial industry. Members of our coalition include consumer, civil rights, investor, retiree, community, labor, faith based and business groups. A list of coalition members is available at <http://ourfinancialsecurity.org/about/our-coalition/>

Even as a funding bill, this legislation falls short, as it cuts the SEC's budget by $100 million ($50 million in the base appropriations and another $50 million through the sweep of the SEC reserve fund in Section 624 of the bill). Since the SEC is independently funded through a tiny fee on Wall Street, rather than through the general Treasury, cutting their funding does not benefit taxpayers. It only benefits Wall Street by reducing effective oversight of the market.

We urge you to reject this legislation.

Sincerely,

Americans for Financial Reform
