June 14, 2012

Dear Representative:

Americans for Financial Reform (AFR), a coalition of more than 250 national and state organizations working together for effective oversight of the capital markets, opposes the funding level for the Commodity Futures Trading Commission (CFTC) in H.R. 2112, a bill making appropriations for Agriculture, Rural Development, Food and Drug Administration and Related Agencies programs for the fiscal year ending September 30, 2012, and for other purposes. We urge you to vote NO on this bill when it is considered on the House floor today or tomorrow.

The House Appropriations Committee must instead reconsider the funding level for the CFTC. The bill you will vote on today would cut funding for the agency by 44 percent, forcing cuts in staffing levels and seriously undermining the CFTC's ability to protect investors and consumers by effectively policing the commodities marketplace through its current market oversight and enforcement functions. The lack of ability to regulate these crucial markets would expose American consumers to manipulation of oil and food prices.

The funding level would also cripple the CFTC's ability to implement its new responsibilities under the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform bill. This legislation charges the CFTC with oversight of approximately $280 trillion in previously unregulated domestic swaps markets, representing a more than seven-fold increase in the notional size of the market the CFTC must supervise. Strengthening regulation of over-the-counter derivatives is a key step in bringing the "shadow markets" that helped crash the economy under sensible regulation. The Dodd-Frank Act also charges the CFTC with setting position limits in the commodities markets, which will help to control the oil market speculation that has driven gas prices to near-record levels.

The commodities and derivatives markets overseen by the CFTC play an integral role in our nation's economy. Adequate investments in a well-functioning CFTC are critical to ensuring that the United States continues to have the most fair, transparent and trusted markets in the world. We urge Congress to reject the bill before you and instead to fund the CFTC at the $308 million level included in the Administration's fiscal year 2012 budget request. This funding level is more than justified when compared to the vast scope and significance of the CFTC's responsibilities.

Sincerely,

Americans for Financial Reform
