VOTE "NO" ON ALL APPROPRIATIONS AMENDMENTS TO UNDERMINE THE NEW CONSUMER FINANCIAL PROTECTION BUREAU

Dear Senator Shelby:

Americans for Financial Reform strongly urges you to oppose any amendments that are proposed to the fiscal year 2012 appropriations bill to weaken the structure, powers and funding of the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau. These proposals dramatically undermine the CFPB's ability to protect consumers, just as the agency is opening its doors. They would sharply decrease accountability and muddle decision-making at the agency. The proposals would also vastly expand the power of disgraced banking regulators to stop necessary consumer protection measures.

- Funding the CFPB through appropriations would saddle Americans with the cost of supporting the agency and allow big banks to thwart its funding. As with every other banking agency, the CFPB is not subject to the appropriations process. (It receives non-taxpayer funding through the Federal Reserve.) This was done by Congress to ensure that the CFPB's independence was not compromised by overwhelming political pressure from the financial services industry. Moreover, unlike other banking agencies, which can set their own budgets, the CFPB's budget is capped at a maximum amount by law.
- Giving bank regulators broad leeway to block CFPB rules would put the same agencies that failed to stop the financial crisis back in charge of consumer protection. The CFPB is currently the only federal agency that can have its rules overturned by other agencies, but Bureau opponents want to go further by giving bank regulators broader "veto" power over CFPB actions. This would be disastrous for consumers and the economy. After all, the CFPB was created because bank regulators did not bother stopping abusive and dangerous mortgage, credit card and other financial practices that harmed millions of Americans and triggered an economic crisis.
- Changing the leadership of the agency from that of a single director to a multi-member commission would make the CFPB less accountable and more likely to slide into gridlock and inaction. Given the unprecedented limits in the Dodd-Frank Act on the CFPB's ability to act to protect consumers, putting a commission in charge would be a debilitating blow to the agency's ability to act in a timely manner when problems arise.

If adopted, these proposals would guarantee that the CFPB will be a weak and timid agency, without the will or ability to curb the kind of financial abuses that caused the nation's worst financial crisis since the Great Depression.

Sincerely,

Americans for Financial Reform
